Daniel T. Coelho, MD

Pediatrics

"I chose medicine because it was a challenge. Being an immigrant, I did not want to take my parents' hard work for granted. I've always loved working and being around people, and Pediatrics has allowed me to be an advocate and a healer. I believe that every person in my exam room has a voice, and I try to make sure that the parents and children have all their concerns addressed before leaving the room. In addition, I use my patience, warmth, and humor to connect with the children and really make sure that they feel comfortable in the exam room."

Nathan W. Anderson, MD

Family Medicine

"I chose Family Medicine because I think it's ideally situated as a "non-specialty" to have an impact on the community. Family Medicine doctors take care of the whole family and the community. I am an advisor. My job is to explain the science and medicine of illness and health in terms that make sense and then provide advice and options for how to treat illness and maintain health. I am here to help people align their health care with their beliefs and values."
